Inter-hotel and Restaurant Chef contest held at National Hospitality Institute

Medals were shining at Gulf Chef School (GCS) as winners of the Inter-hotel Chef competition proudly showed off their medals.

This three-monthly competition is held at GCS, which is part of the National Hospitality Institute (NHI), under the auspices of Oman Chefs Guild.

The competition is based around a mystery box concept where competitors have a time limit to prepare a three-course menu from its contents.

The judges for the contest that took place recently were Oswald Joachim, executive chef, Oman Convention Centre, and Neil Sequeira, executive chef, Golden Tulip hotel.

Each team prepares four plates of each dish. Two dishes are served to real customers at NHI's Classroom restaurant.

NHI always looks for customers for its competitions.

Those interested should contact the team at www.nhioman.com.

The prize money of RO300, which went to the Gold winners, was sponsored by Oman Chefs Guild.

The Gold winners were Jyala Deepak Singh - chef, Uttam Mondal - chef and Sanjog Kumar - waiter from Shangri-La.

The Silver winners were from Al Loomie and Bronze winners were from Sheraton.
