National Hospitality Institute partners with Swiss hotel school

National Hospitality Institute (NHI), a well-respected training institute in Oman, has signed a partnership agreement with HTMI Hotel School of Switzerland, which will allow NHI's Diploma graduates to move onto the degree level programme in Switzerland. HTMI is one of the leading Hotel and Tourism Management schools in Switzerland offering Bachelor's and Master's courses in Hotel and Tourism Management.

"After careful assessment, HTMI is very keen to collaborate with NHI in Oman. We acknowledge the high standards NHI is implementing in its curriculum and find many similarities in the approach to educating future leaders of the hospitality industry. Collaboration between HTMI and NHI can bring a great advantages to students in Muscat and allow them to expand their perspectives globally," said Rohit Bhatia, director, HTMI Switzerland.

Robert MacLean, principal NHI stated, "This agreement provides a route to success for those students who feel that they have the abilities to join the industry in a leadership role. NHI is proud to be able to offer this level of career enhancement, particularly as the hospitality industry in Oman is growing so rapidly."

Enrolments for the NHI Hospitality Management Diploma programme are taking place now.
