

Employees of OCI receive 'Train the Trainer' certificates from NHI

There were some very happy faces at Oman Cables Industry (OCI) as 12 employees were presented with their 'Train the Trainer' certificates by NHI's principal Robert MacLean. "We are delighted to be here with the Oman Cables team who worked hard to achieve these awards," said Maclean.

This highly interactive programme, delivered by professional trainer Julie Locke, gives hands-on practice of the skills needed to design and deliver group training events. Participants learn about the principles that underpin adult learning,

They also learn how to structure and design training sessions, and how to make them interesting, stimulating and fun.

On the successful completion of the programme participants are awarded the Level 3 International Award in Delivering Training certificate, endorsed by Highfield (HABC), UK.

MacLean says, "This five-day programme is ideal for anyone new to training who needs to understand the basics, and also for managers or supervisors who are responsible for delivering departmental or company training."